SYNOPSIS

Finalist for the 2024 AGES Award – Book of the Year Category – Poetry

Ranging from geopolitics to the most minute everyday matters, the poems in canções para desarmar bombas probe how such extremes articulate to hollow out the density of experience in social life. In an original language free of sloganeering and accusatory rhetoric, the book unveils the constellation connecting political opportunism to the banality of clichés and stereotypes that instrumentalize language. Both personal testimony and an assessment of an era, the sound of these songs invites readers to revitalize meaning and poetically process this period of explosions that stuns contemporary sensibility.
