SYNOPSIS

The meaning of our material existence lies hidden in everyday life, in raindrops, in the air we breathe, in the details we overlook amid the rush of capitalist living, which, from crisis to crisis, robs us of our sensitivity and our very purpose in existing. This book was conceived as a manifesto, a call to reflect on everything that goes ignored, on all the life that slips away while we remain immersed in a world of hurry, pressure, exhaustion, and boredom.

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

Mateus Lima Veloso is a dreamer seeking to express the inexpressible, to crystallize within his writing fleeting and unnoticed moments of daily beauty. He is also a young man proud of his name and his wounds, who absorbs the foreign ideas found in world classics to strengthen his textual body in pursuit of a national voice in a fine anthropophagic banquet, ever striving to create something unique, beautiful, and carrying the scent, taste, and face of Brazil.
