SYNOPSIS

"Face of the One I Lose" explores a singular poetic narrative of a lyrical self and their affection over the years, turning it into a home, both in metaphor and in truth. Intensity and calm. Moving away from memories, sensations, and people, all that remains is to transform them into muses—reasons to traverse the uncertainty of a love that, being so perennial, feels so minute. Here, looking back at past grief brings meaning to impending pain. It is finding a tunnel back to oneself. It is looking at a broken vase and making room for reflection: In the disjointing of wholes, what does it mean to love what is missing?

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

Vinícius Galindo Farias was born in 2004 in Arcoverde, Pernambuco. A building technician graduate from the Instituto Federal, he is currently studying Design at the Universidade Federal de Pernambuco. He has been writing since childhood, moving between the affective, the somber, and the longing. He lives with his family in Pesqueira, in the agreste of Pernambuco. "Face of the One I Lose" marks his literary debut.
