SYNOPSIS

Poetic and introspective narratives that explore the complexities of relationships and loss. There are explorations of sexuality, prejudice, and the thin line between sanity and insanity. The texts employ a language rich in symbolism and metaphor to express anguish, desire, and the struggle for authenticity amidst chaos. The collection highlights the fragility of the human psyche. The narratives reveal the relentless search for identity and the difficulty of finding order in a world permeated by absurdity and uncertainty.

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

Gabriel Felix was born in January 2002 in Montes Claros (MG). He is a naturalized Bahian. He is an undergraduate student in psychology, with an emphasis on psychoanalysis, philosophy, and linguistics. He is currently a researcher of traditional therapeutic practices in Bahian terreiros. He is a lover of words and tries to speak as little as possible.
