SYNOPSIS

"Hide-and-Seek Clouds" by Giana Guterres, published by Mondru Editora, invites readers to discover the poetry within everyday life. Through short poems using words familiar to children, the book explores the ability to find lyricism in life's simplest elements, such as nature and everyday objects, stimulating the imagination and revealing the beauty found in the subtleties of the world around us. The work offers a poetic perspective on the trivial, showing that poetry can be found in every moment and every detail.

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

Giana Guterres is a writer and cultural producer, author of Eu, Passarinho (2021, self-published), Como eu sobrevivi quando você trouxe o inverno para dentro de mim (2022, Toma Aí Um Poema), and O amor é uma paisagem na linha do horizonte (2024, Minimalismos). She also leads creative writing and cultural management workshops, organizing projects and events in literature. She is a member of collectives that promote literature, such as Leia Mulheres and Papel Mulher, as well as the local group Cultura Sul in the city of Bagé/RS. She is interested in dialogue with other artistic languages, embroidering and creating videopoems to give materiality to her poetry. She is currently a Territorial Culture Agent. Hide-and-Seek Clouds is her first book with Mondru Editora.
