SYNOPSIS

The Song of Water is a confession. Divided into three parts, the book presents reflections on affection built during childhood and attempts to elucidate how from this feeling, hitherto simple, it becomes possible to enter a universe where love is troubled, almost cruel. Continuing in search of clarification, it does so through speech; if we can only overcome a pain we understand, it stands to reason that the starting point is to acknowledge the feelings we keep inside.

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

Born in Laranjeiras in the city of Rio de Janeiro but raised in Saquarema in the Região dos Lagos, she only returned regularly to her hometown when she enrolled in the Performing Arts program at Casa de Artes de Laranjeiras. An actress, singer, songwriter, entrepreneur, and Libra, she has always enjoyed writing: it was the way she found to express herself since childhood. At first, around mid-2004, she began confiding in a diary; soon after, she took a liking to singing and began writing songs, but it was only in 2011 that she began to use purely written poetry. She wrote what she believed she could no longer sing. In 2022, she gathered her writings and began the book The Song of Water.
