SYNOPSIS

"The Dog Goes to Mass Every Day" is a short story collection about human "filth," about chaos, internal volcanoes constantly on the verge of erupting, and about existing in the world without any sense of belonging. The language is raw, direct, and poetic, with rhythmic sentences that evoke an urgency and intensity. The work offers a piercing view of human reality, featuring marginalized, disillusioned characters seeking an escape from pain and frustration.

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

Pedro de Oliveira was born in 1985 in Brasília (DF). He is a Sagittarius, a journalist, and Alice's father. He published the short story "baiacu" in the anthology "Os peixes têm rugas" (Ed. Pousar – 2022). He was a finalist for the 2023 Prêmio Off Flip in the short story and poetry categories. "o cão vai à missa todos os dias" is his first solo book.
