SYNOPSIS

"The Shipwreck of Illusions" is a novel that delves into the life of Eva, a young woman oppressed by a crippling shyness and a deep sense of inadequacy that makes her feel "too quiet" and "mute." Her existence is marked by loneliness and a constant search for a purpose she cannot identify. Alongside her story, we meet Mael, an equally reserved and solitary young man who feels "insignificant" and a "nuisance," tormented by a mysterious past and his aunt's aversion. Fate brings them together in a town square, where their glances meet, forging a silent connection that promises a mutual awakening beyond their solitudes and illusions, propelling them on a journey of self-discovery and the pursuit of freedom and a more authentic truth in their lives.
