SYNOPSIS

Life, in itself, is already a perfect tightrope walk. To live in the shoes of those who walk hand in hand with disillusionment and endure grief beyond death is to become lost inside one's own body. Maria Alícia, João Miguel, and Clarisse—Teo's mother, father, and teacher—with their painful pasts and aching hearts, cross paths every day with the barefoot boy, whose presence brings light into their lives.

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

Bia Ferraz was born in São Paulo in 1998. From an early age, she wrote poems, song lyrics, diaries, and personal reflections. Working as a volunteer clown in hospitals further deepened her passion and attentive eye toward others, inspiring her to write a book. Barefoot Steps of a Little Life is her debut novel, in which she addresses sensitive and real-life themes.
