SYNOPSIS

Years of accumulated sentimentalism, kept and very well hidden, now come to light: a poetic record of repressed emotions, yet fully described and illustrated in this brief handful of poems. The book is a collection of original poetry, divided into three chapters: “What I Kept of Her,” “What I Kept of Myself,” and “What I Kept of Longing.”

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

Lesbian, writer, poet, social scientist, academic, podcaster, and screenwriter.

A Brasiliense lost in the sertão of Pernambuco, political by birth, and an artist in progress. Let the poems speak for me!
