SYNOPSIS

Poop is a superhero! It takes away everything the little body no longer needs, ensuring plenty of energy to play. In this fun story, children follow the adventures of poop in the diaper, the potty, and the toilet, and discover what happens after flushing. It is a playful way to encourage potty training and, above all, to build a healthy relationship with poop, preventing it from being seen as something gross and embarrassing.

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

Gabriela Metzker is a writer, journalist, and mother of two. She loves reading and sharing good laughs with her children, which sparked her passion for children's literature and the desire to study this field. She completed continuing education coursework in the area and is currently pursuing a postgraduate degree in creative writing at Instituto Vera Cruz (2024–2025) in São Paulo. She also holds a degree in journalism from Unesp, a specialization in communication management from USP, and a master's degree in educommunication from USP. She worked as a journalist for 17 years in media outlets, including editora Alto Astral and the UOL portal. “Supercocô” is her second children's book, following the publication of “A amiga Bruxa”.
