SYNOPSIS

"To be born is this: we are alone and that accompanies us throughout our lives." Loneliness, here, takes on an existential dimension, like a portrait of the organization of urban life, of the distances that set us apart, and of the escape to the coast. In this book, divided into two parts, poetry takes the shape of a melancholy observed from afar, which, combined with the philosophy sought to be imprinted onto the verses, gives the true dimension of the facts: solitude is a journey.

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

Born and raised in Araraquara, in the interior of São Paulo, he is the author of two poetry collections (Saudade Como Vocativo, 2022, Mondru Editora; Teu Coração É Uma Dor Sozinha, 2023, Mondru Editora). He holds a degree in Law and has been writing since he was 15 years old. Now, at age 30, he publishes Incontinência das Horas, his debut novel, the result of seven years of writing.
