SYNOPSIS

"All We See with Eyes Closed," by Pedro H. Elias, is a poetry collection that reveals the overlooked stories from city corners, giving voice to those who are typically invisible. In this work, readers are led on a poetic journey through the lives of the unhoused, street vendors, neglected children, and others. Each verse prompts a reflection on the inequalities we often ignore, while also reminding us of the importance of empathy and humanity in the face of realities that are so harsh, yet full of resilience and hope.

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

Pedro Henrique Elias de Albuquerque, or Pedro H. Elias, is a poet, writer, and teacher. Born in Brasília, he has always seen literature as a way to understand the world and connect people. The candango author focuses primarily on poetry, but also writes short stories. In 2022, he independently published his first work, a chapbook titled “Do êxtase ao esquecimento”. In 2024, he released “Tudo que vemos de olhos fechados” with Mondru Editora.
