SYNOPSIS

Turning Point is a work composed of five interwoven narratives exploring the LGBTQIA+ experience in late-twentieth-century Latin America. Set across different decades, each story addresses the difficulties of communication and the search for identity within an oppressive social context.

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

Dan Silva, born in São Paulo, is a teacher, researcher, and writer. He published the study “Sons da Guerra Civil Espanhola no canto de Montserrat Roig” and the short stories “Hueco” and “Extensão”.
